

Kitchen Gadgets: Industrialization and Change in the American Kitchen

On Display at the Patterson Inn Museum February 13
- May 29, 2009

Take a look at an assortment of kitchen gadgets from the collections of the Corning-Painted Post Historical Society and several of its members. Over the course of the history of the United States, kitchen gadgets such as these transformed the lives of women in America. Due to these innovations women gained the freedom to choose to be a housewife or work outside of the home. As you walk through the exhibit imagine what your life would be like without all of our modern kitchen and household conveniences.

Don't miss this excellent exhibit!
While you're here be sure to see the changes to the Patterson Inn as well.
